

JOIN US FOR A PUBLIC DISCUSSION ABOUT FIRE PREVENTION

Fire season is now a year-round reality in El Dorado County and its surrounding areas. The tragic Camp Fire is but the latest example of the devastation from a wildfire out of control. But did you know:

- 15 of the largest 20 fires in California history have happened since 2000
- Since 2007, El Dorado County has seen major fires that have destroyed structures

With the surge in fire activity, we need to consider how to increase prevention measures. Three upcoming public meetings will provide information and discussion about the types of vegetation management options that could help decrease fire danger in El Dorado County communities.

We need your participation to develop the most effective vegetation management program so our County and its residents have the best chance of avoiding a fire disaster.

Join County District III Supervisor Brian Veerkamp, County staff and representatives from local fire agencies as we discuss this important topic.
